

EUROCLIO receives invitations for with many events, meetings and training seminars, that are all relevant. Unfortunately, neither the Board nor the Secretariat staff of the is always able to attend such meetings and events and therefore miss the opportunity to represent EUROCLIO, promote the organization and its objectives and ask for special attention for responsible and innovative history, citizenship and heritage education

In 2011 the Board decided therefore to create the position of EUROCLIO Ambassadors. They have asked Colleagues, who over a longer period of time have shown great commitment to the Association and have been promoting the Association, its mission and principles. They have shown excellent capacity to represent EUROCLIO at international meetings and events.

In order to qualify for EUROCLIO Ambassador, the Board has designed a set of criteria

To become EUROCLIO Ambassador, a person should have

- Actively promoted the EUROCLIO Mission and principles over a longer period of time
- Shown active involvement in the EUROCLIO work, possibly as Board member, EUROCLIO Committees, Project Manager or Project Member, Peer Expert, Secretariat Staff Member or other,
- Actively promoted the EUROCLIO Principles in the National Member Association and in the learning and teaching of History in their own country
- Actively followed the 2020 Mission current debates and programmes within EUROCLIO, the lobby priorities or other
- Be passionate about history education
