

Partitioned Histories (2016) - Factsheet

General information
Name project	Partitioned Histories: The Other Side Of Your Story
Publish date	2016
Association	The History Project
Representative	Qasim Aslam
Project structure and roles	Contributors: former Harvard professor, curriculum experts, teachers and students. The book has been purely researched from textbooks being taught in schools in the province of Punjab, Pakistan and the state of Maharashtra, India.
Government's role (initiative/ endorsement/ no role)	No Role
Target area (countries/ language area)	India, Pakistan - English

Content information
Type of education material	Textbook
Target group	Students in secondary school
Topic(s)	Politics and government, Prepartition Pakistani / Indian History
Theme(s)	History
Geographical scope	India, Pakistan
Period	1857-1947
Authors	Alizeh Hameed, Zehra Munir, Sanaya Patel, Arjun Sachdeva, Azka Shoaib, Sidra Zia
Editor(s)	Sana Anwar, Joyeeta Dey, Noorzadeh Raja, Taymiya Zaman, Sidra Zia
Academic advisor	Taymiya Zaman
Publisher	The History Project
Output	Print and e-Book Language: English
Website	http://www.partitionedhistories.com/

Aim of the project: “The book places Indian and Pakistani textbook narratives side-by-side to highlight the contrast between them, and to point to areas of convergence. The purpose is to introduce people to multiple versions of a shared past and to jolt their conscience into accepting, for starters, that parallel realities can exist in the form of perspectives, whilst being backed by equally.”<sup>1</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup> “Partitioned Histories, The Other Side of Your Story: The content of the book,” The History Project, accessed March 9, 2018, <http://www.partitionedhistories.com/>